

Pre-School Post

Hello,

This week we have begun to look at people who help us. The children have a good idea of many different occupations and they have enjoyed role playing these. Especially the military roles, marching, hiding in the camouflage dens and blowing the whistle to be heard! The biggest compliment was a child who asked me "can I be a teacher when I am bigger?!" We would love to welcome any parents or extended family members that might want to share their role from the community for a few minutes with the children.

The home corner has become a very busy (and messy!) bakers shop. The children have had so much fun with the flour, filling cake cases, baking trays with creations and baking in the oven. There has been lots of mathematical language developed as they discuss, weight, cooking times in the oven, and serve in the shop some of which are quite expensive biscuits! The children have loved role playing this back to parents as they sell their biscuits at the end of the day. We also appreciate that's its parents first time in the classroom, since COVID restrictions have allowed visitors.

In group time, we have been testing our listening skills, this is tricky! We have played sound lotto games and are getting better at this.

Some of the children have had the opportunity to visit the school hall where we challenge our physical skills using the apparatus. We try to do this once a week and its lovely for the children to see siblings working in class, and say hello to the admin team who always welcome a chat with the youngest members of the school.

Independence

We have been working hard at learning to put on our own shoes and socks. Each time children manage this skill they get to do their super power finger print to show how clever they are on our planning. One of the many ways we are encouraging children to be resilient and progress with their learning.

Please ensure your child has suitable footwear in Pre-school that is both practical for the weather and them to attempt this important developmental milestone.
